100 TEACHERS COME TO WAINWRIGHT FOR ANNUAL CONVENTION

TAYLOR OF FAYAN SUCCEEDS MURRAY OF WAINWRIGHT AS PRESIDENT

Teachers from a well represented area of the Wainwright Inspectorate assembled here Thursday in session for the eleventh year to listen to various special addresses and discussions pertaining to the profession at large and more especially to the immediate conditions arising in this Inspectorate.

Thursday's program was given over to general addresses for all teachers. Friday's to discussion of teaching methods and courses of study and to business details. New officers chosen Friday were: Hon. Perren Baker, honorary president; G. Taylor, Fayon school district, president; Miss Lola Mabey, Wainwright, vice-president; Miss E. Hart, Gerald S.D., secretary-treasurer; executive committee, Mr. Haire, Mr. Huse of Kinella S.D., and Miss MacGregor of Chauvin S.D.

Good Attendance
Inspector Good stated that he was quite well pleased with the percentage of teachers present and that the field was quite well represented. Asked as to the comparative number of men and women, he stated that there was some increase in the number of young men that were entering the teaching profession as compared to former years. In spite of the sudden cold snap, several teachers drove long distances to attend the convention.

Several speakers representing various institutions of learning were also present and appeared on the program. On the whole those bearing the major responsibility of securing the speakers on the program and arranging the plan of events were well pleased and are highly commended for their good management. A good spirit pervaded the entire convention and many expressed themselves as well paid for the coming.

Mayor Forster Speaks
The invocation was given by Rev. C. N. Bateman, pastor of the local St. Thomas' Anglican church. His prayer was followed by an address of welcome by Mayor M. L. Forster, who expressed himself as highly honored to extend the hand of welcome to a group of people representing the teaching profession. As Mayor, he said, it was his privilege to extend a welcome to all sorts of gatherings, such as naturally assemble in a center like Wainwright, but that he had a warm spot in his heart for the teachers especially, as he had followed that profession in his earlier life.

The chairman and president of the convention, Mr. O. W. Murray, of local Wainwright school faculty, then introduced Mr. H. C. Montgomery, chairman of the Wainwright school board, who extended a welcome to the visitors on behalf of the school board. He stated that the town school was unfortunate this year in (Continued on Page Five)

E. LOCKE, FORMERLY RESIDENT HERE, DIED OCT. 1 AT MAINE HOME

Mr. Edwin Locke of Skowhegan, Maine, U.S.A., former local resident, died at his home October 1. Funeral services were held October 4. The Star hopes to have more details for next week.

Mr. and Mrs. Locke and son Everett came to Wainwright in 1912, buying C.P.R. land six miles north of Wainwright. Mr. and Mrs. Locke resided there until two years ago when they moved to his old home in Maine.

CHANGCHUN, Manchuria, Oct. 5.—Japanese troops operating in the Nomi River Valley of Northwestern Manchuria, Wednesday, were reported to have said Li Hai-Ching himself attempted to escape but was believed to have been killed although the body was not found.

PERFECT SERVICE! Paper Scoops Father

KITCHENER, Ont.—"At last the Record can boast perfect service," the Kitchener Record says proudly. And this is why:

A reporter put in his routine call for the hospital. A fine baby had been born to Mrs. X. Later, in the course of his wanderings, the reporter met Mr. X.

"Congratulations," said "he scribe. Mr. X. looked blank.

"Congratulations on the new baby," added the reporter.

"The baby? By gosh, you're right. What is it, a boy or a girl?" asked Mr. X, who admitted he hadn't checked the hospital for an hour or so.

"Why, it's a boy," said the scribe surprised.

"Whoopee," shouted Mr. X as he headed for the hospital, scooped on his own story.

COLD WEATHER PAYS VISIT TO WAINWRIGHT

According to unofficial reports and otherwise we had weather here the last week. Not just the ordinary semi-languorous Indian summer weather, but the real invigorating kind. The kind that makes you think of winter. The kind that reminds you to drain your car at night, and the kind that makes you get out the red flannels.

Friday marked the change in temperature, and since then it has been chilly. Some figures and reports tell us that the average temperature for the last few days is 35 degrees above zero and that the coldest time was about 4 a.m. Sunday morning when the thermometer dropped to 3 degrees above zero.

Accompanying this cold snap was a wind that didn't help a bit. And to make things worse flurries of snow were noticed at various times. The most snow that fell in Wainwright was Friday night. Just enough so that you could say the snow fell. But it was cold snow.

And from sad experience it caught some of us napping. The result was frozen radiators, broken cylinder heads, ice on the drinking water and cold feet when we got up in the morning to light a fire to heat a cold house.

But we're all still hoping that Indian summer won't pass us by. We haven't had quite enough warm weather, and maybe if we lead the right kind of a life for the next few days, someone will reconsider and send us our Indian summer.

Ed. Note.—I'm a liar. It really is snowing today.

FRANCE PLANS TO STOCK LARGE SUPPLY OF WHEAT

PARIS, Oct. 5.—The cabinet today decided to ask parliament for enough money to finance the stocking of 22,000,000 bushels of wheat. Producers would hold the wheat themselves under the direction of recognized agricultural associations.

COOK HOUSE USED FOR TEMPORARY DWELLING BURNED LAST SUNDAY

A cook house on the George Smith and son farm west of town was destroyed by fire last Sunday. H. R. Barnett and family were occupying the building until a house they are building is finished. On account of the cold they had covered the floor with straw, which may have become ignited. Shortly after noon the building was discovered on fire and burned before any of the contents had been saved. In addition to the building, all the clothes, dishes, and other belongings of the Barnett family burned. There was no insurance.

THANKSGIVING AND HARVEST SEASON CELEBRATED HERE

LOCAL CHURCHES, INDIVIDUALS JOIN THIS WEEK-END IN GIVING THANKS

What is the spirit of Thanksgiving? Each year as this day rolls around it is celebrated by various associations. Perhaps it depends somewhat upon the profession or business in which one happens to be engaged or whether he is a member of the great army of unemployed, while with the poor or laboring man, the number of dependents has an important bearing on the picture. The wealthy and independent have still another point in view which is more or less modified by the disposition of the individual. Perhaps one does not need to be religious to be sympathetic but the real Christian spirit certainly is conducive to kindness and real charity.

It is a season of the year when everyone should strive to seriously meditate upon his own and other people's attitude toward Almighty God, who is the author and giver of every good and perfect gift, as no one, no matter how rich or how poor, has a corner on the divine right of every individual to approach sacredly near the God of Love and Father of all.

It is needless to say that the real joy that can come to every human heart depends upon his relationship to his Heavenly Father, as his personal acquaintance with the divine spells success and happiness, which no power on earth can distort or destroy if the man has a right conception of God Almighty and the proper method of approach. It is perfectly true that every one gets a real kick out of an act of genuine benevolence, but it depends primarily upon the spirit which prompts the deed, as to the attitude of divine recognition.

Every one with an ounce of benevolence or sympathy cannot fail to realize that there is as much or more real suffering and human need existing in the world right at this time than ever before, and to all who have a tender heart this adds greatly to his burden of personal obligation. To one who is fortunate in finding himself in a position where he can contribute something, either in sympathy or materially, to his less unfortunate brother, it offers a problem deserving of the most careful consideration, as to who to consider, and how and when to dispose of his offering. The need is so great that it is simply staggering, and one feels the need of divine leadership in making a wise and sane contribution.

One is faced with an overwhelming number of channels to make this contribution, but which is the safest and sanest is the problem. One sometimes hesitates to favor what has always been considered the sanest channel, namely the church or lodge or club, for even these organizations have not always shown the discretion which is expected from these well meaning and deserving orders, for in many cases they have failed woefully to carry out this sacred obligation in a sensible and sane manner. It is a deplorable fact that some of the people responsible for the raising and distribution of funds have shown themselves to be most fickle and wholly incompetent to handle matters of such grave importance and this fact alone has caused a wide breach between church and labor and it behooves everyone these days to thoroughly investigate every appeal that is made to him or to the public, to determine its worthiness, and this is not necessarily a reflection upon any one representing the appeal, or the object it may represent.

There is plenty of food to feed the hungry and the poor are always with us, but let us earnestly consider this problem. The only intelligent method to approach this question which is of such grave importance is through earnest prayer and meditation, for through this method we put ourselves into a position where God can trust us to do His will.

Four hairs of good strength will hold a one-pound weight.

?.....?.....? Whistle Stuck!

Perhaps you heard a long toot from the engine Monday morning, and perhaps you didn't, but it was giving a long Toot just the same. Visions of a fire, a celebration, a desire for a little extra noise, or some one audibly protesting having eaten too much chicken, or goose, flashed through our minds. Says we, there must be a reason for that, so off we dash for the railroad station and learn that such things do happen even on train engines.

The whistle stuck, and persisted in staying stuck from Greenhills to Wainwright. Hence comes the noise. Where goes it?

CURLER'S RINK PLANS MUCH MORE DEFINITE

Marked evidences of optimism were shown at the meeting of the Curlers last Friday night. The attendance was larger than at the last meeting, and considerable work was accomplished.

It is hoped that within a short time work will be started on construction of a building. According to present plans the building will be erected on land to be purchased just inside the town limits, at the end of Third avenue.

Contributions are not quite all in, and before actual work can be started it will be necessary to raise more money. Several business men are interested in this rink and will call on you in a short time to ask for donations. This is a cause that deserves the support of everyone, and it is hoped that everyone will respond.

WOMEN ATTEND EASTERN STAR MEETINGS LAST WEEK

Last Wednesday evening two carloads of local women went to Hardisty Eastern Star chapter. Thursday evening another carload drove to Sedgewick for another Star meeting. The occasions were both due to the visit of Mrs. E. Grace Scaife, worthy grand matron, of Calgary to these towns. Mrs. Scaife visited Wainwright in September.

NO WINDSHIELD, No Top, But 10 Passengers

EDMONTON—A serious-minded schoolboy in sweater and pants walked into police court, Friday, and fought his case so well that Magistrate Scott said:

"Well, my lad, I think you've built up a good defence, and I'm going to let you off, although I think you had too many riding in that car."

Harold Tewkesbury was alleged to have had four passengers in the front seat of his old-fashioned touring car, five persons in the back and one on the running board. He had been driving them home from school.

Tewkesbury said that in the first place he was only driving his car because he had a sore leg and couldn't walk to school; that his vision was not obstructed as the charge alleged, because the car had no top, very little windshield and he had plenty of room to see in all directions; that four persons in the front seat of this type of car was not too many because the mechanical operation was entirely with one's feet and the emergency brake was on the left side. For these and a few other good reasons in his defence he claimed he was not guilty.

Magistrate Scott said the type of car mentioned was the kind he had first driven himself, after the boy had asked him if he knew their construction.

MARRIAGE SOLEMNIZED BY REV. C. BATEMAN SATURDAY NIGHT AT ANGLICAN CHURCH

BOXING EXHIBITION AT EDGERTON PROVIDES THRILLS FOR CROWD

LARGE CROWD ATTENDS; TWO KNOCK-OUTS, DRAW ON CARD

Two knock-outs, a draw, an exhibition fight, and a clown fight provided thrills and comedy for a large crowd at the flight at Edgerton last Tuesday night.

Shorty Russel of Edgerton knocked out Kid Fuller of Edmonton in the fifth round of the main bout, after Fuller had opened a cut over Russel's eye earlier in the fight. In the third round Fuller had Russel all but out but didn't have quite enough left to put him out for the count. In the fourth round Fuller had Russel all but out but back and pelted Fuller all over the ring, and finally after a savage body attack had him groggy and put him out neatly in the first part of the fifth round.

The first knock-out of the evening was credited to Don Hallit of Edgerton who put George Dawson of Irma out in the third round. Hallit showed a far better brand of fighting all through the bout and had Dawson on the defensive from the start.

The first bout of the card between Snyder and Grayson, both of Wainwright, was a three round fight, and was declared a draw. Fast boxing and hard punching for the full three rounds featured this bout.

The second bout was an exhibition between Battling Romo and Bill Roberts. These were both Wainwright boys, and they put up a good fast fight. No decision was given.

Immediately following the main event was a clown fight between the Battlin' Babamas of Edgerton vicinity. This bout was decided as a draw after three rounds, more or less, of what might be called, at a lucid interval, a fight. No one was injured in this fight.

PETTY THIEVERY GROWS MORE SERIOUS IN LOCAL STORES; TAKE WARNING

Stop. Look and Read the Editorial, appearing this week. It is of utmost importance to every parent of the community.

A lot of petty thievery is going on in Wainwright. Several merchants have told The Star that they have caught a number of children stealing little things from the counters of their stores. They said that a large number of these are children of well known and well liked families.

So far the merchants have refrained from causing the arrest of these children, but have intimated that if such a condition continues, drastic steps will be taken to stop them. It isn't the loss that bothers them, but the fact that such practices may develop into something more serious.

The children may have the idea that they are getting away with this stealing and that the store owners do not know who is doing it, but that is a mistaken idea. The merchants know every child that is stealing, and unless it is stopped immediately, some measures will be adopted to punish them.

Parents, don't you think it is a good idea to find out if it is your child? It might be, and by doing your part now you may save yourselves some little embarrassment later on. Read the editorial column this week. It is of utmost importance to every parent in this community.

CHILD DEFIES FIRE to Rescue Her Doll

ERICKSDALE, Man.—Mother love apparently was born within Evelyn Johnson, and no mother could do more for the safety of her child than this 5-year-old girl did to rescue her doll.

Standing in tears as flames ate away the walls of her mother's home, little Evelyn suddenly remembered her doll had been left behind. Without a moment's hesitation the child rushed through the smoking doorway and disappeared.

It was minutes before Mrs. Johnson missed the youngster and, thinking she might have gone inside the burning building, raced in after her. There she found little Evelyn clutching a doll in her arms, stricken with terror and standing in a circle of flames. Mrs. Johnson swept the child into her arms and dashed through the open door. Both woman and child were badly seared and are under medical care. Their condition, however, is not serious. The doll's clothing was singed.

ALBERTA WILL GAIN ONE M.P. IN NEW BILL

BRITISH COLUMBIA GAINS TWO, NEW BRUNSWICK, NOVA SCOTIA TO LOSE

OTTAWA—Prime Minister Bennett will introduce in the house of commons Monday a bill redistributing representation in the house. He gave notice of this Friday. It will be the regular decennial redistribution, based on the census of 1931. The province of Quebec, with a set representation of 65, will be the basis, the other provinces having as many members as the ratio between their population and that of Quebec.

The bill will not alter the total number of members in the house—this will remain at 245. Nova Scotia will lose two members, and New Brunswick will lose one. British Columbia will gain two members and Alberta one. Representation from the other provinces will remain the same. The bill will change the boundary lines of many ridings, some being made smaller, others larger. In Ontario, for instance, the number of members will remain the same, but urban centres may be given more representation by abolishing some rural ridings.

LOCAL PEOPLE ESCAPE INJURIES IN ACCIDENT

Some of our local people had a narrow escape from what might have been a serious accident, while motor-riding to Edmonton one day last week. The car in which they were driving turned over but no one was hurt. Those riding in the car were Mr. and Mrs. Francis Dickens, Mrs. Geo. Glass and Lawrence Goulet.

The funeral was held Thursday at the United church in Lacombe. Rev. Dr. Parrish of the Wesleyan United church in Edmonton conducted the service, assisted by Rev. Mr. Layton of the Lacombe United church. Burial was at Lacombe.

WAINWRIGHT, ALBERTA OCTOBER 12th., 1932

CHILD DELINQUENCY

Thursday afternoon, at the Teachers' convention, held here in Wainwright, Dr. H. E. Smith gave some startling figures and facts, based on the experience covering several years of careful research in the field of childhood and youth, primarily from the standpoint of child delinquency. Dr. Smith stated that he had visited many places and institutions where children and youth were under observation.

His introductory remarks led him to make some distinction between the responsibility of the various institutions, such as the home, church, school, state and other contributing influences, such as society at large. He stated that it was a difficult problem to place one's finger on the one and only influence that was more responsible than another, but that every one realized that the home was the greater opportunity for the parents, themselves, to mold the character of the child so that other influences might not play such an important part in the overthrow of the character of the child.

His statement pertaining to the age at which the character was formed, either for good or bad, was considerably below what is generally accepted as a plastic age. His statement was that the average child was well developed in character and disposition at 12 years, and that after that, no amount of training could change him, and that the chance of reform after that age was useless. In fact, he stated that in some cases, some children were set in character at the age of 8.

These startling statements prompted us to seriously consider the type of influence which the great majority of our children are receiving from us as parents, for it is reasonable to assume that few parents will willfully and purposely neglect the moral and spiritual welfare of their children.

Another statement made by Dr. Smith was quite startling. He related the outcome of a recent survey of a certain community, in which a special study of the children of the community was made, segregating the children who attended church and those who did not. The study was approached from one angle only, that of determining which of the two groups were most cheerful, and yet to the amazement of those fostering the study, it was discovered that the children attending church were the most cheerful. Dr. Smith did not seem to put a great deal of confidence into this report, but nevertheless it is an experiment which has aroused considerable comment, for if this is any indication of the country at large, it certainly is a subject that should challenge careful study on the part of all parents who have succeeded in convincing themselves that their children are O.K. just because they do go to church. It is quite evident that there is a grave weakness somewhere, that necessitates immediate correction. Certainly no family of good standing or otherwise, would care to have their own children caught pilfering, but it is not fair for any family, no matter what position they may occupy in the society of the community, to delegate all the moral and spiritual instruction to the school or church, and they, as parents, fail to, by precept and example, do their duty. Occasionally, a child will of its own accord, or unduly influenced by others, pull stunts that are simply unbelievable, regardless of the high and holy teaching received at home. It, therefore, is not unreasonable to suspect that the children of Wainwright are any different than children of any other community.

A couple of weeks ago someone entered the home of a leading merchant of this town, while all members were absent. A week later the event was repeated. The party was apprehended, goods and money were returned. The matter was hushed up and no public punishment was administered. Whether this was the proper method of procedure, we are not attempting to say, but since that time, various complaints have been in circulation that there are children from the best families in town, who have been actually caught stealing, by the various merchants of town, but rather than air out the situation, the children have been permitted to go. Now if they have been caught in the very act, the question arises, how many have gotten away with articles that were not caught, of which they are in possession at this time. Of course, the point at stake is not so much of value of the property, as the seriousness of the deed. If they succeed once without detection, they might try again. If caught and not punished, they may repeat the offense, until the habit grows. Certainly this matter comes within the range of every family of the town and community, to make some investigation in their own domestic circles, for children should not be allowed to go unadmonished by their parents, and it certainly is up to the parents to make their own investigation and not wait for the law to step in of necessity and bring more or less reproach upon the good standing of the family.

THE DUFF REPORT ON THE RAILWAYS

The Duff Railway Commission report does not provide a cure for the railway situation in Canada, but it does suggest the policies that will solve that problem, to the extent that it is solvable, and it provides an outline of the machinery necessary to carry out those policies.

In the long run it will probably prove to be a good thing that the Duff Commission did not attempt to present a panacea. There is obviously no panacea capable of immediate application, capable also of providing a quick cure. Only the careful policy of rigorously economical administration, of considering our present railroads as the maximum we require for one, two and possibly three decades, and of taking our losses and paying them each year as we go along will ever lighten the load.

If one sets down in black and white the reasons why our railway problem has grown to its present seriousness and gravity, one will find in the Duff Commission report the proper line of attack upon the problem.

There is the question of extravagant extensions of lines and equipment and of unwise capital expenditures. The recommendations provide for machinery to prevent these in the future.

There is the question of unbecomingly competition between the two railways that has gone beyond the competition required for efficient effort. Through the proposed arbitral board this can be and may be practically eliminated.

There is the question of political influences in the operation of the Canadian National Railway, that have led to many costly mistakes being made. Reducing the C.N.R. board and making it consist of the three men who will indeed be trustees for the Canadian people makes it possible to take the Canadian National Railway right out of politics. In this respect the success of the move will depend greatly upon the selections made by the government of trustees.

Ramblin's

By M. M. Z.

And now maybe I can get to work. I have been talking to salesmen nearly all afternoon, and as a consequence thought I might be able to get out of trying to write this column, but no go, and here we go.

And since I got me a ticket in some way or other to the Ladies Aid dinner the other night I went and gorged myself and as I noticed I did a lot of others, and I wish that people would quit asking me for food while I'm eating. That's our occupation that I don't like being disturbed at.

And then from there the family and I (or me) went over to Edgerton and took in the boxing matches that Kirk Snyder promoted and got a black eye from. And it is a beautiful shade of purple, and Kirk didn't have any beefsteak handy, too bad, but then he does have to have something to show for his fight, which was the first on the card, and he got to watch all the others, and speaking of boxing cards, that was a good one, at least I think so, and what with two decisions, and two knockouts, pardon me, k.o.'s, and some nice goosy blood and some dandy potential hay-makers, oh yes, you ought to have been there, but the best layout was the fight following the main event, one little feller weighing 200 pounds, and another little feller that only weighed 280, poor little devil, any how they were feeling merry and decided that a fight was a swell idea, and fight they did, they got up in the ring and are off, 280 heaves mightily to his feet, sways a minute and lunges at 200, it's a square hit, no, it isn't, he misses, no, he is back of 200 and headed for the ropes, no I'm wrong, it's Kirk, the dinky referee, he's after, he swings, and darned if he doesn't hit the corner post, what a blow, what a, now he backs off and is clasped to the bosom of 200, they're in a clinch, hurrah, they clinch, now Kirk is coming in, at full force, he takes off, he lands, what a landing, perfect four point landing, one foot in each abdomen, one hand in each face, perfect, what a fight, what a fight, now they're separated, the gong strikes, no it doesn't, but 280 is tired, he decides the round is finished, so he doesn't, he's coming out, he's out, boy what a fight, now he's after 200, he's got him, it's a hit, no, he misses, 200 comes from the rear, and leaps, it's a tackle, boy and what a beauty, out of the nowhere into the here, he's down, he's up, there they go, now they're in a marathon dance, as far as they know, now Kirk is coming in, it's a hit for Kirk, no, it's a pitch,

Probably the extent of the success achieved by the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways in their joint effort at co-ordination and co-operation to the common end of reducing the burden can be measured in inverse ratio to the extent to which the arbitral board is called upon to function. If the proper spirit animates the executives of the two lines and if they work fearlessly and co-operatively together to cut out wasteful expenditures, they and the public will have to call upon the arbitral board to a very small extent to force agreements between them.

Questions such as amalgamation of telegraph systems, of hotels, etc., were not finally decided by the Duff Commission but the way at least has been opened for any amalgamation of this character that are considered by the executives of the two railroads to be in the public interest.

Finally, the chief value of this report is the emphasis that it places upon the seriousness of the problem. Undoubtedly its recommendations, unless they are misrepresented from coast to coast will prepare the public for a vaster effort at the solution of the railway problem than we have ever before had in Canada.

How much the annual savings can or will amount to is beyond conjecture, but it would be surprising if a sincere group of representatives of the two railroads found it impossible to reduce expenses by a minimum of $50,000,000 per normal year. And $50,000,000 a year in Canada is probably the difference between an average balancing of our budget and a steady march to the brink of insolvency. "The Financial Post."

It's a pitch, he pitches on his knee, it's a hit, it's a hit, he hits the floor, what play is it now, now they're out of the huddle, they're lining up, here comes the signals, ah, a long end run, here he comes up from the back, and, it's a perfect tackle, boy what a tackle, but, no, he isn't down, it's Kirk that's out, he's out for the count, and there goes the gong, it saves Kirk and the fighters, the what, the fighters I said, now here they come out, but what's the matter with 280, he's coming out of his corner on his hands and feet, and where's 200, oh, there he is, he decided he didn't want to fight this round, now 280 is out in the center of the ring, he groans, he grunts, and, and, and once more, ah, he's up, he's up, whoopee, he's up, now he's sparring, looking for an opening, now he swings, a clean swing, and he's out for the count of ten and rolls across the floor, who? 200, no, a poor cuffed button, the button tries to get up, but no, it's no use, it was a fatal blow, and he's out for the evening, but no bloody fighter can get away with that, says 200, and out he lunges from his corner, he's closing in, he's in, they clinch, Kirk is coming in from the side, what form, what grace, he seems to be singing the jump, he is, now he jumps, what a jump, up he goes, up, up, up, wait a minute, he's, he's, you he's over, boy, what a jump, he cleared the bar at a good 6 feet 4, now he's coming down, he's down, it's a hit, no, I'm wrong, it's counted as an error, now he's up and retires to the corner, now 280 and 200 are at it again, they're sparring, they get set for a hit, they're ready, they hit, no, 200 jumps the gun, and the starter makes them line up again, now they're all set again, they're poised, here comes the starting signal, here it comes, here it is, and there it goes, and the fighters swing, wait a minute, something's the matter, they seem to be mad at each other, and won't fight, now they're making faces at each other, what faces, they really must be mad, now they're backing off, they're off, they're off, are YOU telling ME? and, and, yes, can I believe my eyes, yes, it's true, they swing at each other, and, yes, by golly they're both out, they're out and Kirk the referee, wins the fight, folks you ought to be here at the ringside and hear the crowd, they're in an uproar, wait a minute I'll turn the mike so that you can hear them yelling, hear 'em, boy, ain't that great, folks, what a fight this has been, what a fight this has been, and now folks this is MMZ signing off, be with you again at this time next week.

A surgeon was aroused in the early morning by the phone. "Hello!" he said sleepily. "What is it?"

"Oh, doctor, we've been having a party," said an agitated voice over the wire. "and I'm rather worried about my pal."

"But why bother me?" snapped the surgeon. "Is he seeing elephants or something?"

"That's the trouble doctor," replied the voice. "The room is full of them, and he can't see any."

TWENTY YEARS AGO
Oct. 12, 1912

Secretary King of the fire brigade resigned from office on Friday evening, despite efforts on the part of the members present to induce him to stay. A new secretary however was selected in M.P.E. Rose from whom much is expected. A recommendation was also made that firemen be put on a payroll to be made responsible to the city and to take quarters at the fire hall. Certainly the brigade should consist of more than volunteers, as the latter are responsible to no one.

The mayoralty for Wainwright seems to be begging for a candidate this election. No one has expressed a wish for this office and several have very politely refused the invitation to run.

Due to the practical farming development in this vicinity it has become unprofitable for ranchmen to continue to pasture their herds and flocks. Realizing the effect which this development has had on the settlement naturally following, Messrs. Henry Meyers, S. Sorenson, and Colton Catley left here some weeks ago and are now travelling westward. They are heading for the mountains where they feel there will be safety from farmers for several years.

Petting thieving is still a booming proposition in this community. Beside the rifling of stores the thief or thieves have now taken to picking clothes from clotheslines. The Rev. H. A. Clark reports a complete cleaning of one line. The Hotel has also been a sufferer.

The machinery in the new flour mill is being installed at a rapid rate. A thing that strikes one as significant in looking over the machinery in the new mill is the modern appearance of the different parts. That the mill will prove adequate for the capacity of the mill is admitted, for no better makes are available than that installed by Messrs. Bird and Co.

The school enrollment is steadily increasing. Three scholars are now up for the twelfth grade certificates, four for eleventh grade, four for grade ten and fifteen for public school enrollment. No better proof than this is necessary for the assertion that Wainwright will become an important seat of learning.

TEN YEARS AGO
Oct. 11, 1922

The site has been chosen by the British Petroleum Ltd. as to where they will first drill for oil. The first site will be just six miles from town at a spot north of Wainwright just off the government road. It is very well located, being accessible by phone and car, and as near the railroads as it needs to be. The company is prepared to drill 5000 feet if necessary, but it is thought 2000 feet will be sufficient, that being the depth of the Fabyan well.

This week sees the advent of a new business to this town, it being an up-to-date bakery. Mr. E. J. Coleman is the owner. He came here recently from Brockville, Ontario.

Mr. J. Russell Love, M.L.A., addressed the local U.F.A. and U.F.W.A. on Saturday. The meeting was held especially to discuss the controversy that had arisen over the special sessional indemnity of July last. After the address Mr. Love answered all questions which arose and finally a vote of confidence was taken in the Alberta government and the local members, the vote being passed unanimously.

Many people regret to learn of the passing of Mr. Jack McClelland at his old home in Scotland and sympathize with his sister Mrs. Chas. Church.

Mr. Carson Steen who left about a month ago to take a course in a veterinary college in the East has returned. There were so few applicants that the school did not open this term.

Messrs. Church and Stuart have this week practically wound up the cattle shipment from this district for the season. They shipped last week 260 head of choice stock to Winnipeg and Toronto and got pretty good prices for their stuff, too.

ONE YEAR AGO
Oct. 14, 1931

A fire on the farm of Alec Piater, south of Greenhills, where Ross Valleur's machine was threshing last Thursday afternoon, was discovered just in time to enable the crew to save the machinery, granary, and the grain.

The firemen had a call on Wednesday to the home of Mrs. Cummings on third avenue, east, and again on Monday to the Walton property on Fifth avenue, west. In neither case was there any appreciable damage done.

Among the splendid gifts to the hospital during the past week are: Mrs. A. H. Ford, a quart each of strawberries and raspberries, sacks of turnips and potatoes from Rose Willow W.I., and truly generous loads of fruit and vegetables from the three churches in which harvest Thanksgiving services were held last Sunday.

Messrs. H. Montgomery and R. Robertson left on Tuesday for the city where as lay delegates they will attend the Anglican church synod which is being held this week for the purpose of electing a new bishop to the Edmonton diocese in place of Bishop Gray who has resigned and returned to England.

We are sorry to learn that Mr. F. Perkins is again on the sick list and we wish him better.

He who overcomes others is strong, but he who overcomes himself is mightier still.—Lao Tse.

HEART TROUBLE

Not a few people are worried because they think they have heart trouble when, as a matter of fact, there is nothing wrong with the heart at all. Sensations of pain around the heart, shortness of breath and palpitations are not by any means always due to heart trouble. What is commonly called indigestion may be responsible for such symptoms.

It is rather remarkable that a great many people take upon themselves the responsibility of deciding that their heart is diseased. Some go even further and attempt to treat themselves. There are others who do not want to know what is wrong; they act as though their ignorance would in some way protect them.

There is every reason why we should find out the cause of pain or other physical discomfort. Pain is a sign that something is wrong; the sooner the condition receives attention, the better will be the chance of a quick and complete return to health.

If, for one reason or another, the heart becomes damaged, it is most important that the fact should be known early. If the capacity of the damaged heart is not exceeded, there is every reason to expect that life will not be interfered with.

The person with heart trouble who simply shuts his eyes to the condition, and refuses to accept advice as to how to live without overtaxing his heart, is headed straight for disaster; he may endure many years of invalidism, and certainly his life will be greatly shortened. If you have heart trouble you will have to learn to live a life which will not place any sudden or extra work upon your heart.

The heart, as one part of the body, benefits from the condition of the whole body; so the general health should be cared for. The heart gets most rest when we sleep; and as rest is essential for health, we commend the habit of long hours of sleep in a well-ventilated room to those who have a heart that needs extra care.

Heart trouble does not make the sufferer an invalid. Exercise, within limitations, is usually desirable. The limits of play and work will have to be approved by the doctor who observes the effects of such efforts. Shortness of breath in any case means that the limit has been reached.

There are so many different forms of heart trouble, and these occur in such varying degrees of severity, that each case must be considered individually after medical examination.

Questions concerning Health, addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 College Street, Toronto, will be answered personally by letter.

Weekly Sermon

SCIENCE AND RELIGION CAN BE RECONCILED, SAYS MILLIKAN

That there is no insurmountable barrier between the modern physical scientist and the staunch religionist was made very plain by Dr. Robert A. Millikan, eminent American physicist, in a recent address at Winnipeg, Manitoba. In fact, he asserted that the greatest scientific men, like Maxwell, Faraday, Galileo, and Newton of the past, and Jeans, Eddington, and Einstein of the present, have possessed an abiding faith that a divine power, under whatever name, had a definite place in the cosmic economy.

That religion and science are thus reconciled may come as a surprise to many, for the belief has gained ground that when physical science with its theory of evolution comes in religion goes out. But the advanced thinkers of today fully realize that this revolutionary process did not result from any force inherent in matter, but rather from a universal power which has manifested itself throughout creation. Bergson called this power elan vital—or vital impulse. By whatever name it is designated, it is the infinite Principle, the great First Cause, which created the universe and will rule it throughout eternity.

Too often, it seems, in spite of the vision of the most eminent scientists, students accepting the theory of evolution as explaining the development of life on the earth in its countless forms and finally producing mankind, have thrown away the scriptural story of creation, relegating it to the realm of tradition, or even of mythology. The higher vision of the leaders is correcting this misapprehension, and thus saving many from atheism and agnosticism. Professor Eddington in an address in London, as reported in the press, in answer to the query as to the most momentous step recently taken in physical science, declared boldly that it was the realization that physical science at the most is dealing only with shadows. Reality, the ultimate and absolute of existence, is something back of, although in substance quite apart from, the physical universe.

Dr. Millikan gave figures to prove there is in the United States an increasing interest in religion among all classes, and that the physical scientists are no exception. He stated that where formerly but 12 per cent of the scientific men were listed in Who's Who as churchmen, 44 per cent of the younger group are listed as such. Thus the conclusion is drawn that physical science is not undermining religion.

There is no legitimate reason why the two should not go hand in hand when it is realized that where religion deals definitely with things of the spirit, physical science deals only with the realm of matter, with the things that are temporal; and that reality, the ultimate and absolute, pertains only to the things that are not seen, the things which are eternal. In the light of this understanding there is no conflict—religion and the sciences are indeed reconciled.

How Does Your Label Read?

A Visit to The Holy Land

Dear Friends:—I am somewhat opposed to continued stories, but as I was asked and promised to write a sketch of my experience in the oriental countries, I am obliged to continue it from week to week as the story is too lengthy to give all together—and then I am only giving you a small portion of it.

I left you in Athens last week and perhaps some, if not all of you are getting tired of the place. Yet I ask you to permit me to say a few more things in regard to that city before leaving it entirely.

Athens is the cradle of Grecian Art, whose culture and history has never been excelled from the beginning of time.

One of the first sights to greet us upon our arrival at Athens was the Yellow Temple, the best preserved edifice of ancient Greece. Ascending the Acropolis, where the ancient Greeks worshipped their gods and left us undying works of art, we enjoyed a closer view of the Parthenon, once the world's most beautiful building, and now its most famous ruin. Erechtheum with the porch of Maidens holding its roof on their queenly heads; and the Temple of Victory, from where we saw the ruins of the vast place of assembly where Demosthenes, the greatest orator of history delivered his great oration against Philip of Macedon; and the Rocky Cavern, where Socrates is said to have been imprisoned and where he drank the fatal cup of hemlock. A short walk brought us to "Mars Hill" where Paul preached his immortal sermon. These are only a few of the scores of treasures that Athens has stored away.

Next we enjoyed a sightseeing trip by sea through the Dardanelles, on the European side, from which we could see the battle fields of Gallipoli in which a vain attempt was made to drive the Turks from Europe. After passing these historic shores we crossed the sea of Marmora and continued on our way through Bosphorus, which with the Golden Horn cuts Constantinople.

Constantinople embraces three towns, Galata, and Pera, the European quarter, Scutari, the Turkish town. Standing where it does two continents and two seas meet. Istanbul (Constantinople) is one of the most admirably located cities in the world. It is said that if you stand for one hour on Galata bridge you would see every nationality in the world pass by.

Among the most interesting places that we visited was the Blue Mosque. The most famous of them all, the Sancta Sophia, with columns brought from the temple of Diana, of Epheus, a Christian church for a thousand years until captured by the Turks and turned into a Mosque. The Basilica, Cistern, and the garden of Seraglio—once the home of the Sultan and his many wives. A miniature underground city, dimly lighted arch streets, where Moors, Turks, and Tartars make silverware, shawls, carved ivories, amber, embroideries, jewelry and all kinds of merchandise.

Now we come back through Dardanelles to Rhodes, where stood the Colossus, one of the wonders of the ancient world. The fame of Rhodes is older than history and poets. They called it the friend of the sun. We were told that a day never passes without a streak of sunshine some time during the day.

From Rhodes we sailed to Cyprus, one of the least modernized islands of the Mediterranean—the scene of Shakespeare. This island was visited by Paul and Barnabas. At last we are about to enter the Holy Land.

REV. WILSON, EDMONTON, WILL SPEAK HERE SUNDAY

The Rev. Mr. Wilson of Edmonton will give the address Sunday evening at St. Thomas' Anglican church. The services on that day will be for the children, and Sunday evening there will be corporate communion for the members of the A.Y.F.A. and the Sunday school teachers. Tentative plans have been made for the Boy Scouts and Girl Guides to march to the church. The morning address at the church will be given by the regular pastor, Rev. C. N. Bateman.

WOMAN'S AUXILIARY OF ST. THOMAS ANGLICAN CHURCH MET TUESDAY

The Women's Auxiliary of the St. Thomas Anglican church met Tuesday, Oct. 4, at the parish hall for their regular monthly meeting. Mrs. C. T. Lally, president of the organization presided at the meeting. During the business meeting it was decided that in the future meetings will be held at the members' homes instead of at the parish hall.

Mrs. Milner gave a report on the three months' time during which she served as hospital convener. Mrs. F. McLeod was elected as hospital convener for the next three months. Arrangements for a supper to be held soon were also discussed.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Alec Adams the first Wednesday in November at 8 p.m.

WOMAN'S MISSIONARY GROUP OF U. CHURCH MET THURSDAY

The Woman's Missionary society of the United church met a pleasant afternoon at the home of Mrs. Fred Perkins last Thursday. Three carloads of ladies drove out from town and met with those in the country. It was the annual Associate Helpers' meeting, conducted by the president, Mrs. H. L. Courcier, and the Associate Helpers' secretary, Mrs. Mackell. Mrs. Thomas brought the report from the branch meeting in Edmonton.

At the close the hostess served dainty refreshments and the ladies spent a delightful social hour.

ST. ANDREWS LADIES AID SUPPER HELD LAST WEEK

The St. Andrews Presbyterian Ladies Aid society supper held last Tuesday, Oct. 4, was a great success from all angles, both from the angle of the Ladies Aid and from the angle of the suppers who supped the supper sufficiently sufficing their various and sanguine stomachs.

There seemed to be chicken, and chicken, and more chicken, with a few carrots, potatoes, salad, stuffing, pickles, etc. for contrast. And then there was pie, cake, jello and what have you. It was a lot of a drain on the old capacity to sample them all but one likes to be fair and not show partiality.

The people were coming and going to the last chicken, and it was plainly to be seen that the enjoyment was universal.

Thus and Such

By So and So

There was a young lady in red,
No thoughts, lots of words in her head,
She pondered and thought,
An idea went plunk,
"I will write me a column," she said.

Blank—
Don't you think I write swell poetry? All right, I heard you—you don't have to rub it in. The idea's good even if the poetry isn't.

Blank—
I don't wear red very often, but I couldn't think of anything else that would rhyme. You see I wrote the poem backwards from the last line—that's the way all great poets work.

Very Blank—
Well, I've been delaying this as long as possible, but it seems that I'm going to have to write the other half of the debate that started last week. But I hate to write in a losing cause, because I have a feeling that I have already won the debate. All right—coming up in the next installment of the epic battle over favorite indoor sports, Battling Bath-tub vs. Loving Live Stock.

Too Darned Blank—
What is a home without its live stock? Live stock to care for, live stock to pick fleas from, live stock to feed with what burned last night, live stock to step on when you're in a hurry, live stock to howl just as you settle down for that nice snooze at night, live stock that leaves the chair hairy when you're wearing a nice woolly dark dress—what home should be without its loving, languorous, lap-lapping, lop-sided, long-eared, lean, lovable, lank, luscious, labor-making, lachrymal, lacicomic, laggyard, lamentable, lost, laudable, late, leaky and lazy live stock.

Blank—
But there's other live stock to care for—in some ways even more fascinating than the accepted household pets which cheer and bear family love in every home. I speak of those sweet little pets, those adorable little four-legged pests called mice and those winged beauties commonly known as houseflies.

What housewife feels the urge to tramp the fields with a gun and her husband and help-mate in search of the deceitful duck or the gazelle-like goose? No true woman need turn to pursuits like these, if she considers the possibilities in her own home.

When she feels the urge to hunt, let her turn, not to the open prairies when yellow leaves flutter down from brown bushes and reeds bend beside blue lakes, but to the dark corners of her own household. There lies her great opportunity. Ah, consider the pervasive odor of the stale cheese which baits your mousetrap—can that compare with the pungent odor of brown grasses and fall winds? And remember that pleasant start and yelp as the mousetrap closes on your finger—who would choose the crack of brush underfoot? And again, think of the lovely sticky sensation when the fly-trap paper catches in your hair as you turn to the cupboard—who would prefer the hunter's outdoor occupations to such pleasures? Ah, housewives do not appreciate the full pleasures of their lot—let them men their ways in the future.

For if you have no household and no mice and flies to occupy your days and fulfill your hunter's instinct how about a husband? There the hunting instinct can be fully gratified—a woman's true field of action. But perhaps enough has been said on that, considering the presence of husbands in The Star office.

Blankety Blank Blank—
Which is what the rest of the office said after reading this column, but they're going to print it anyhow because no one wants to write another one.

Ima Blank—
The birds have flew,
The snow has snowed,
And I'd like to know
What the heck?
Says you,
Me too!

Weerall Blank—
That's all.

Miss L. Page, matron of the local hospital returned last week-end from a month's vacation at her home. Gunder Wegert Erickson and Agnes Helen Voy, both of Jarrow, were united in marriage Monday, Oct. 10, at St. Andrews Presbyterian church. Rev. W. S. Brooker performed the ceremony.

PANTRY SALE AND TEA BY UNITED CHURCH LADIES

The pantry sale and tea given by the United Church Women's association Saturday afternoon at McLeod's store was very much of a success. Members of the tea committee were Mrs. Manners, chairman, Mrs. F. W. Fish and Mrs. W. A. Knowles. The prize at the tea seemed to be jellied veal. When one person comes back twice to the same tea just to get a taste of the jellied veal it seems to spell approval.

Blank—
Then there was the pantry sale, of which Mrs. Bowerman and Mrs. Telford were in charge. These ladies offered you everything from apple pie and coconut cake to dressed chickens and unfried eggs. The ladies worked hard to make this a success and they did.

WOMAN'S INSTITUTE MET MONDAY; CHANGED DATE FOR SUPPER AND SALE

The Wainwright Woman's Institute held their regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. J. W. Stuart Saturday afternoon. At their arrival the guests were cordially received by their president, Mrs. Mabey and their hostess.

The meeting was opened by the recitation in unison of the "Club Woman's Creed" and the singing of "O Canada." The chief business was discussion of plans for the Halloween tea which had been set for Oct. 29. Since the Woman's Missionary society of the United church had also set that date for a tea, the Woman's Institute decided to change their date to Saturday, Oct. 22.

The affair will be a "Cafeteria Supper" and "Novelty Sale" and will be held at the L.O.O.F. It is promised that it will be a unique affair. Mrs. Shearer and Mrs. Turner and their committee will have charge of the supper. Mrs. Mabey and Mrs. Greer the sale, and Mrs. Lasell, Mrs. Patterson and Mrs. Smart the tables. Other committees were also appointed.

Following the close of the business a delicious lunch was served by Mrs. A. Horne and Mrs. A. Robinson. Eighteen were present. The next regular meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Lasell Nov. 12. Mrs. Kirkpatrick and Miss Martin will assist.

Church Notes

There was a very good attendance at all churches last Sunday and some of the ministers gave sermons bearing on the Thanksgiving spirit. Several of the churches were beautifully decorated in harmony with the harvest season. The day was rather stormy in the forenoon but good crowds were out especially in the evening.

Blank—
The United church choir made its debut Sunday night, rendering a very beautiful and appropriate anthem, under the leadership of Mr. W. J. Huntingford, who also sang a solo at the close of the sermon.

Blank—
The United church young people held their meeting immediately after the church service with a good number present. Some business was transacted and together with other things, it was decided to stage a membership drive to terminate the first of the year. Captains were appointed and they immediately chose up sides. The side, gaining the most points will be banqueted by the losing side. A very interesting program was also given in charge of Rev. Huston. He was assisted by Mabel Prosser and Ken Tory who gave a discussion by way of a debate on Missions. All young people who are not attending elsewhere are invited to come to these meetings. You will enjoy it.

Blank—
A special offering was taken at the Presbyterian church and a good response was forthcoming.

PENINSULAR PETE NOW

BEING REFINANCED

Peninsular Pets, which has a well standing, after being drilled to a couple of hundred feet, in the Wainwright field, has had another increase of capitalization, which brings the shares up to 4,000,000. The following reference to the company appears in the Financial Post of Toronto, where the head office of the company is situated.

Coincident with the increasing of the capitalization of Peninsular Petroleum from 2,000,000 to 4,000,000 shares is an unusual volume of trading on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange, together with a new high market value of 20c per share.

The treasury of the company has been flat for some time and an increase in the capitalization makes it apparent that its financial sponsors are about to seek further funds. Originally incorporated in 1929 with a capitalization of 1,000,000 shares, it was later increased to 2,000,000 shares to permit refinancing. Now comes the announcement of further increasing to 4,000,000 shares.

The company, despite its refinancing, has never completed a development program of importance. Its first effort was in the Wainwright oil and gas area of Alberta. The next move was to acquire the holdings of the Wainwright Oils by an exchange of shares. This brought an extensive shareholders' list and a fresh list of prospects from whom to solicit funds. Last winter some gas leases near the Brantford Indian Reserve were acquired to kindle interest in the enterprise. This did not reach the profitable production stage. More recently negotiations were on for participation in oil leases in South America.

The market activity and the further increasing of capitalization suggests a new venture.—Exchange.

100 Teachers Come

losing Principal Kyle but fortunate in securing the services of the present Principal, Mr. H. P. Thoreson, and that under his able management the school was making good and satisfactory progress.

Mr. Grant M. Saul, from Metropolitan S.D. responded as a representative of the teachers assembled. Committees on nomination and resolution were then appointed.

Inspector Good Speaks. Mr. Lorne Good, B.Sc., inspector of public schools, was introduced and gave a comprehensive address, well prepared to meet the demands of the occasion. He stated that the schools of the inspectorate are well manned by good and efficient teachers and that as many schools are operating as last year. Among many other points which he emphasized was the statement that the success of a teacher was not so much a question of the quantity of work covered as the quality of work accomplished.

This point was also stressed by another speaker on the program. Mr. Good proved that it was not necessary for the student just to commit a lot of rules to memory, as to thoroughly understand what he covered, though it represented a narrower range of material.

Rev. W. H. Zook, Editor of the Wainwright Star, was then introduced and addressed the convention on the subject: "Developing Personalities." He quoted ex-President Coolidge, as having said that mere education without virtue might prove to be a dangerous plan, as many students were under the impression that education prepared them to exploit their more unfortunate neighbor who might have been deprived of a liberal education, and it therefore was a great opportunity on the part of the teaching profession to study each child and seek to inspire character and honesty as well as scholastic ability. Society as a whole falls into three groups: The Zero class, the Nero class and the Hero class, Rev. Mr. Zook said. He urged that the teacher stress character building as well as secular education. He stressed the idea that the teacher should display courage and patience with the so-called bad or unpromising student as well as with those who were extremely aggressive, as often it is true that the apparently unpromising child is simply a misunderstood child who possesses great possibilities.

Dr. Smith Main Speaker. The afternoon address by Dr. H. F.

Smith, Ph.D., University of Alberta, was by far the outstanding address of the entire convention. As a student of psychology and child delinquency, Dr. Smith presented many very interesting and stabilizing facts which will aid teachers in dealing with the problems that confront them all and will be of special aid to the teacher who takes his profession with seriousness and realizes that there are great possibilities in molding the life of the student.

Some of the statements he made have been referred to in the editorial appearing in this issue, and we trust it will not only be appreciated by teachers but by parents as well.

Dr. Smith stated that he had visited many institutions of reform as well as having watched carefully all modern movements that are calculated to reform the delinquent child. But, of course, the chief medium of influence contributing to the character formation of the child is in the home and is a burden which the parent should shoulder with seriousness and the major portion of responsibility.

Music Festival Discussed. Mr. G. F. Manning, M.A., instructor Camrose normal school, gave an interesting discussion on various subjects with which the teacher has to deal in the use of the various text books.

Mr. John W. Barnett, of Edmonton, representing the teachers association, gave an able appeal regarding the necessity of every teacher supporting the association, as many items of great importance could be maintained which are of vital interest to the teaching profession. Applications were presented at the close of his address for teachers to become members or renew their membership.

The meeting on Friday consisted of discussions of various subjects included in the course of study.

Nearly 100 teachers were in attendance and those who were in charge of the affair were quite well pleased with the program and the fine spirit that prevailed.

The musical festival which will be held in the spring was discussed and details regarding this important event will be published later.

Mr. Murray, who is the retiring president is to be highly commended for the fine work he did in securing the program.

Hints for the Household

THE HUMBLE BEAN IN FULL DRESS

By Betty Barclay

Beans are such an important item in the diet that many women have come to think of them in terms of bread, potatoes, bacon and eggs. In other words the bean is something that is to be served regularly, but after all it is a rather plain, unattractive dish in spite of its deliciousness and healthful qualities.

No greater injustice has ever been done the healthful bean than to intimate that a bean dish must be a plain dish. Beans, when baked, may be served in some of the most attractive forms imaginable.

Before describing two or three of these, however, may I suggest that you always assure yourself that the baked beans you serve are really baked. This is by no means a silly suggestion, for most of the purchased beans that people call "baked" beans are really not baked at all—they are merely steamed or boiled.

The wise housewife who wants baked beans will read the labels on the cans she purchases. Unless she finds the word "baked" she may rest assured that the beans are not baked. She may also be sure that there is just as much difference between steamed or boiled beans and baked beans as there is between a boiled potato and a flaky baked potato.

When you have secured real baked beans, take your cans home and try out the following recipes. When you place these foods upon the table the guests and the members of your family will hardly recognize the humble little bean in its full dress clothes.

Baked Bean and Egg Salad

- 1 medium can oven-baked beans (Boston style.)
- 3 hard-cooked eggs
- 6 preserved sweet gherkins, chopped
- 1 small onion, chopped
- ½ teaspoon salt
- mayonnaise salad dressing
- lettuce

Place oven-baked beans in a sieve and wash with boiling water and cool. Add chopped egg whites, gherkins, onion and salt. Moisten with mayonnaise and serve in crisp lettuce cups. Garnish with mayonnaise and egg yolks pressed through a sieve. Serve very cold. Serves 4.

Bermuda Onions Stuffed with Beans

- 6 large Bermuda onions
- 3 tablespoons butter
- 1 medium can oven-baked beans (vegetarian style.)
- ½ cupful dry bread crumbs
- ½ cupful tomato ketchup
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoonful pepper

Peel the onions carefully, scoop out centers, leaving hollow cup with opening at the top about as big as fifty-cent piece. Chop ½ cupful of the onion removed from centers and let simmer in butter 10 minutes. Remove from fire and combine with oven-baked beans, ketchup, seasonings and bread crumbs. Fill onions with prepared mixture. Place in a deep, covered baking dish with little water. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) 1½ hours or until onions are tender. Serves 6.

Corned Beef Supper Snacks

- 1 small can corned beef
- 1 small can oven-baked beans (vegetarian style.)
- 1 tablespoonful onion, minced
- ½ cupful chow chow pickle, chopped finely
- 1 tablespoonful mustard sauce, from pickle

Chill corned beef in can several hours, then cut in thin slices. Mash oven-baked beans and combine with pickle and mustard sauce. Spread baked bean mixture between slices of corned beef. Arrange on a platter and garnish with parsley.

JELLIED SEAFOODS

Seafoods in jelled form make an attractive dish for a Bridge Luncheon, Five o'Clock Tea or Mid-day snack. Here are two inexpensive recipes that are well worth trying:

Jellied Seafood

- 1 package lemon-flavored gelatin
- 1 cup boiling water
- ½ cup chili sauce
- 1 tablespoon vinegar
- 2 drops tabasco sauce
- 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 2 teaspoons prepared horseradish

- Cold Water
- 2 cups diced lobster or shrimp or shredded crab meat

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Combine chili sauce, vinegar, tabasco sauce, Worcestershire sauce, and horseradish, and add enough cold water to make 1 cup. Add to gelatin. Chill. When slightly thickened, fold in fish. Turn into mold. Chill until firm. Unmold. Serves 8.

Jellied Tuna with Mayonnaise

- 1 package lemon-flavored gelatin
- 1 cup boiling water
- 1 cup cold water
- 2 tablespoons vinegar
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup tuna fish, flaked
- 1 cup peas, fresh-cooked or canned
- 2 tablespoons pimiento, finely chopped
- ½ cup mayonnaise

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Add cold water, vinegar, and salt. Chill. When slightly thickened, fold in remaining ingredients. Blend. Turn into individual molds. Chill until firm. Unmold on crisp lettuce. Garnish with additional mayonnaise. Serves 6 to 8.

ALMOND ICE CREAM

- 4 cups milk
- 1 cup heavy cream
- 2 junket tablets
- 1½ cups sugar
- 1 teaspoon almond extract
- 1 tablespoon vanilla
- 1½ teaspoons junket brand grape green coloring
- 1 can peaches

Dissolve junket tablets in a tablespoon cold water. Mix milk, cream and sugar. Warm to lukewarm, stirring well to be sure sugar is dissolved. Add flavoring and coloring. Add dissolved junket tablet. Stir a few seconds. Then pour at once into a freezer can. Let stand until firm and cool. Freeze, and serve garnished with halves of peaches. Recipe makes 10 to 12 servings.

Candied Orange Peel for Flavoring Use

Remove peel in quarters from 3 medium sized oranges. Cover with water. Boil 20 minutes. Drain. Bring 1 cup sugar and ½ cup water to boil. Cook peel in this until saturated with syrup. Drain. Roll in granulated sugar. When cold, store in tightly covered jar. Cut into strips or small bits.

INDUSTRY HEADED BY PULP AND PAPER

LEADS CANADA IN GROSS AND NET VALUES AND WAGE DISTRIBUTION

MONTREAL, Canada—First in Canadian industry for gross and net values of manufactured products and for distribution of wages and salaries is the manufacture of pulp and paper, according to official figures compiled by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. In total capital invested pulp and paper is second only to electric light and power plants, and in total number of employees second to sawmills.

The gross value of the manufactured product of the industry last year was $36,000,000, a reduction of $8,000,000 from the preceding year. This gross value represents the sum of the values of pulp made for sale in Canada and for export, and paper manufactured. Newsprint paper made up 85.3 per cent of the total tonnage of paper manufactured, or 2,227,062 valued at $28,000,000. The Canadian production of standard newsprint was 91.9 per cent greater than that of the United States, her closest competitor. For the first six months of the present year 999,885 tons of newsprint comprised the Canadian output.

Exports of newsprint are second in value to wheat only and in 1931 were 2,008,240 tons, most of it going to the United States.

The total capital invested in the manufacturing end of the pulp and paper industry is set at $130,000,000 and employees on salary or wage numbered last year 26,669 with a payroll of $7,000,000.

Of 83 law-breakers arrested on various charges in one night at Montreal, 82 were unable to pay their fines and were remanded in custody. Depression was blamed.

BUSINESS CONDITIONS SHOWING IMPROVEMENT

EMPLOYMENT INCREASE, RISE IN MANUFACTURING BOTH NOTED

Reports from every direction show the trend of business continues upwards in the United States.

Car loadings, usually a good indicator, are up; the stock market was bullish yesterday for the first time in 10 days, and mills reopening in South Carolina will employ 1300 workers.

Electric power output shows sudden bulge and the federal relief program is getting into its stride. Bids for sites in several cities were opened Oct. 5 and 6.

The world gold situation is reported better, and there appears to be no doubt that public morale is on a much higher plane.

WASHINGTON. — Maintenance of the improvement in the employment situation noted in its July report and further increases in activities in certain sections of the country were noted in the August bulletin of the United States Employment Service, made public yesterday.

While increases in employment were not evident in steel mills and automobile factories, expansion was reported in farm areas, in textile mills, shipbuilding yards and highway construction.

The conclusions of the employment service were corroborated by figures from Bureau of Labor statistics, which revealed that employment increased one-half of one per cent in August in 16 major industrial groups. The manufacturing industries showed a gain of 1.4 per cent in employment. Nearly 65,000 establishments are covered in the bureau's survey. A synopsis of the monthly bulletin follows:

"The harvesting of crops, including wheat, vegetables and fruit, kept thousands of hands engaged in the farming areas. Operations were seasonably stepped up in the fruit and vegetable canning factories, and many additional workers were employed. The demands for cotton pickers steadily increased as the month progressed, and large numbers of men and women were absorbed, while the opening of the cotton-ginning establishments gave employment to hundreds of laborers.

"Building continued to lag behind the volume usually apparent at this period of the year. Operating schedules and forces were again increased in the textile industry, especially in those mills located in the New England and south Atlantic states, and full time prevailed in many of the establishments producing woolen and cotton goods, hosiery and rayon and silk. Plants manufacturing boots and shoes kept their forces fairly well engaged in most instances, and in several localities increased employment was noted among these workers.

"A number of the shipbuilding yards along the eastern seaboard increased their forces. Employment in the iron and steel mills, automobile factories and many other industries remained on a curtailed basis, with large surpluses of skilled and unskilled labor still apparent, especially in the more thickly populated sections."

Marshall Poch while on a visit to America was dining with a number of other guests in Denver. One of the guests present, commenting on French politeness, said, "Sometimes it seems there is nothing in it but wind."

The Marshall replied: "Neither is there anything but wind in a pneumatic tire, yet it eases the jolts along life's highway wonderfully."

UNITED CHURCH
ASSERTS BIRTH

MARRIED COUPLES HAVE A RIGHT TO WEIGH OWN CONVICTIONS

HAMILTON. — Every Christian married person has the right to determine "in the light of all the facts and obligations involved, how far precautions against reproduction shall be employed in his or her own life," the United Church Board of Evangelism and Social Service declares in a special report on the "meaning and responsibilities of Christian marriage" prepared for the general council of the church in session here.

Reviewing the attitude of other churches on the question, the report says: "The largest body of Christians has condemned as sinful any sexual union of married people attended by precautions against reproduction, though it is only just to add that this general prohibition is in practice made less stringent in particular cases."

"On the other hand, the Anglican bishops gathered at Lambeth from all parts of the world, while excluding from Christian life the pursuit of undisciplined indulgence and the selfish refusal of parenthood, affirmed by a preponderant majority that in those cases where there is a clearly felt moral obligation to avoid parenthood and where there is a morally sound reason for avoiding complete abstinence, other methods may be used, provided that this is done in the light of Christian principles."

The report, however, issues the warning: "It is clear that the time has not yet arrived when one can declare positively what will be the ultimate effect of the practice of contraception upon the human organism with its intimate interaction of emotional and physiological factors. 'It is, therefore, clear that no contraceptive method should be employed without competent medical advice and even then only subject to the obligation to exercise self-control in every phase of life.'"

BENNETT REPORTED TO HAVE GIVEN $750,000 TO PARTY WAR CHEST

REGINA.—Prime Minister R. B. Bennett "placed $750,000 of his own money in our campaign funds and not much more than that was spent."

This statement was made Wednesday night by F. W. Turnbull, K.C., member of the House of Commons for Regina City, at the Arthur Meighen Club. He was referring to the campaign funds used by the Conservative party in the federal election of 1930 which returned that party to power, with Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett at the helm as prime minister.

Turnbull merely touched on the question of campaign funds, usually a closely guarded secret of all political parties, while discussing the recent Imperial conference.

TREE PLANTING WILL BE ENCOURAGED BY PROVINCE GOVERNMENT

Announcement of a new tree-planting policy for Alberta, looking towards reforestation, is announced by Hon. R. G. Reid, provincial minister of lands and mines. Following assumption of control of the province's natural resources, and having in mind the influence of tree growth on soil drifting and moisture conservation, as well as the enhancement of the natural beauty of the countryside, the government believed it to be a duty to establish some foundation for reforestation work in the future.

Commencing next spring, free distribution will be made from stocks already established at Oliver provincial farm near Edmonton, of young white spruce to farmers in the parklands belt who are making an effort to preserve the bluffs already on their farms. Spruce growth has been found to be successful in these bluffs. For the time being this will be the extent of the operation of the policy, though it will be expanded to include other important features of reforestation as soon as found practical and advisable.

There will be no conflict with the work of the federal forestry stations in the west, the province having in mind the larger object of re-establishment of coniferous growth in the parkland and prairie sections. With respect to the prairie section, the policy for the time will be confined to assisting municipalities and farmers to grow spruce and pine in wood lots already established and around lakes which are more or less community or holiday centres. Trees for this purpose will be supplied for cost of freight only.

A feature of the policy at present in mind is that there will be very little financial outlay, since the establishment of foundation stocks, which has already been done at Oliver to a considerable extent, is carried on with land available at the Oliver institute, and with labour of patients, providing a very satisfactory form of treatment also for the patients. There are now at Oliver some 800,000 lodge pole pine in seed beds, and some 300,000 spruce seedlings. More seed beds to be added next spring will provide more than a million more trees.

The government is also doing something at Oliver in the way of experimenting with other tree growth, and already some 28 varieties in all are being tried out there, including those native to the province.

FRANCE SEES GERMAN
CONDITIONS MAKING
CONFERENCE USELESS

PARIS, Oct. 5.—The newspaper Le Temps said Wednesday conditions reported sought by the German government before it would accept Great Britain's proposal for a conference to discuss German armaments would render the proposed conversations "entirely useless."

It said reports from Berlin indicated Germany would be unwilling to participate unless assured in advance of recognition of its principles of arms equality.

This "would render the proposed conversations absolutely useless, since the problem would be settled before being examined."

In the Farmington, N. H. News appeared the following: "Correction: In the personal column of last week's issue it was reported that Carroll Peavey and daughter Nancy, of Lisbon, were in town recently, and in their itinerary of visits included the former's grandfather, Albert S. Wallace. Mr. Wallace wishes it contradicted that he received this attention from his grandson."

In this way travellers by these trains have been enjoying fresh blooms between Edmonton and Vancouver and Prince Rupert. The idea is intended to popularize British Columbia flower garden seeds and bulbs and to establish what is looked upon as a new Canadian industry.

Canada has a religious sect so small, the recent census reveals, that it has not been calculated separately. Its members are known as the Tunkers and they live a very severe life. Men and women dwell apart; marriage is forbidden and they are strict vegetarians. There are also Tunkers in the United States but they are called Dunkers and sometimes Dunkards or Dippers. The sect was founded in Germany in 1708 by Alexander Mack but fled from persecution to the United States in 1720. They settled at Ephrata near Philadelphia, but later spread westward.

A dainty miss powdering her nose may never have thought of this, but the natural resources department of the Canadian National Railways vouches for its truth. The same talc that comes off the powder puff to hit the high spots on a lady's face also goes into paper making, the manufacture of paints, cement, rubber, textiles, lubricants and various other products. Just in case you are still interested, Canada mined 12,000 tons of it last year. Most of it comes from near Madoc, Ontario. Soapstone, which is similar enough to be practically a first cousin, is mined in Quebec.

ALL THE NEWS FROM THE TOWN AND DISTRICT

It's been so cold that the aristocratic dog on Swanson's truck has had to condescend to second-rate stuff and ride inside instead of on top. Oh, well, we all have our ups and downs.

We are sorry to hear that Mrs. W.A. Prosser was on the sick list last week.

Mr. W. Carrell left Friday for Calgary on several days business.

Burr, says we as we go to press. The bottom may have dropped out of the stock market as far as we're concerned, but coat collars certainly took a rise last Friday.

It's arrived: Thank goodness it has, says Alex. The next installment of the Zook family at last. Last Monday, Oct. 3, the early morning train was met en masse and every train from every direction was met thereafter. After almost a week, results. Incidentally it is Mildred Zook, on a month's vacation from her duties as head nurse of a ward in the Ann Arbor, Mich., university hospital.

Hiram McLeod and family of McLaughlin were in town for the week-end to celebrate Thanksgiving with Mr. McLeod's family, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. McLeod.

Basket social Friday, October 14, auspices L.O.O.F. Ladies bring baskets.

Mr. Sorgen left Saturday to spend the Thanksgiving holidays in Holden with friends.

Charles Newport and George Boyd had dinner Monday with Mr. and Mrs. Brunker. They left Tuesday for Vancouver. Mr. Newport, former resident whose home is now in Vancouver, has been spending a month in Wainwright and Saskatoon.

Miss Alice Flewelling of Irma who has been visiting Mrs. William Crowe left Monday for her home.

Bill Cummings spent the week-end in Edmonton with his sister.

Gordon Kenny came up from Bentley to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. S. Kenny, over the Thanksgiving holidays.

Three carloads of local men went to Edgerton one night last week to attend a Masonic meeting.

Come to the Knife and Fork Supper to be held in the Masonic hall Saturday, October 15th, from 6:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m., under the auspices of St. Thomas Anglican W.A. Admission: adults 40 cents, children under 12 years 25 cents.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Washburn motored to Edmonton Thursday. Mr. Washburn returned to Wainwright in a short time but Mrs. Washburn is staying over for a visit with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Pete Fleming took advantage of Thanksgiving Sunday to round up their family for a big dinner. All the children were present except one daughter, Anna, and grandchildren brought the total at the dinner to fifteen. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Goodkey and family, Mr. and Mrs. Milo Melvin and family and the members of the Fleming family still at home.

Charles Lindsay, one of the pioneers of the Heath district, who still owns a farm there in town last week from his home in Edmonton.

Armstrong Fall and Winter Sale starts Oct. 15. Good values, good merchandise.

Mrs. H. Betty of the Sligo vicinity spent several days last week with Mrs. J. Fuller.

Grain in the bin on your farm should be insured against lightning, stack, stubble and prairie fire. It can be insured for 30 days or longer at very low cost. See Joe Welch for this insurance.

Mr. Frank Wright, son-in-law of Calvert Pleasdale, has bought a half section north of Heath and is moving his family here from Saskatchewan. Mr. Wright is an experienced farmer and is bringing his full equipment. We extend him a hearty welcome to this community.

Mr. James Toy, well-known insurance man of Edmonton, spent a few days in town last week during the teachers convention.

Mrs. Morrison of Edmonton is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Arkwright.

Mr. Dave Lepper of Edmonton visited his parents in Wainwright over the Thanksgiving holidays.

Miss Bessie Welch, vice-principal of the school at Big Valley, visited her parents in Wainwright over the week-end. She was accompanied by Miss Margaret Brown and they drove here in Miss Brown's car.

Mr. S. J. Adamson has accepted a position as manager of a flour mill at Drumheller, Alta., and left this week for his new work. One business that prospers with the low prices is that of the millers, as nearly all farmers have their own wheat ground into flour. We are informed that about a dozen new flour mills have been put into operation this year.

The time has passed when the only thing a person could pick up from his front porch was the daily milk bottle. Nowadays one might find anything from abandoned babies to jack-rabbits. The very latest is the abandonment of two babies at the Bowerman home. They weren't exactly found on the doorstep, they were in the bushes, and they weren't exactly human, they were baby cats, but they were abandoned. As long as it happened on Thanksgiving the kittens can give thanks they were found and the Bowermans can give thanks—maybe—that they have something to lick up the leftover milk or they might start a fur farm for fox-skin coats or they might just stuff them and use them for doorstops ten years from now. But anyway, if you meet a member of the Bowerman family on the street don't say, "How is your health?" but say, "How is your cat?"

The W.M.S. of the United church will hold a "Hallowe'en Tea" in McLeod's furniture store on Saturday, Oct. 29, from 3 to 6 p.m.

Auction Sale Monday October 17, at Weinrich farm 5 miles north of Irma.

Now is the time to prepare for winter. Make your buildings warm with lumber and paper. Put up storm windows and doors, and take home a load of coal. You will find everything you need at the Atlas Lumber Yard.

Mr. George Long of Vermilion visited friends in Wainwright over the Thanksgiving holidays.

Mr. C. Dupuis and family of Broseau, Alta., have moved to Wainwright and will occupy one of the brick houses on Eighth avenue.

C. Wittmann of the Bank of Montreal was transferred today to the Viking branch, and M. E. Ford from the Edgerton branch came here to take Wittmann's place.

Miss K. Hart, employee in the Wainwright branch of the Bank of Montreal, spent her Thanksgiving vacation at Killam.

Miss Janet Cain of the Wainwright high school faculty motored to her home in Manville to visit her parents for Thanksgiving.

Mrs. Bibby Jr., Misses Ada and Georgina Wiley and Miss Dorothy Wilkins spent the Thanksgiving holiday hiking out from town about five miles.
